JCM Global Receives Certification from Russian Federation Central Bank for its TBV Bill Validation Technology

DUSSELDORF, Germany (15 April 2015) – JCM Global’s landmark TBV™ bill validation technology has received certification from the Russian Federation Central Bank.

The certification relates specifically to four machine-readable features on the TBV, and earning the certification means the bill validator meets new requirements that will take effect at the first of July this year and is already approved for use.

JCM EMEA General Manager Payam Zadeh said, “We have been working very hard in Russia to bring TBV’s high-efficiency, high-security technology to the marketplace. Now earning this certification opens more opportunities for our current and future customers to use reliable, certified equipment, and we are very excited with the possibilities this market holds for JCM.”

JCM’s TBV bulk note acceptance has been field-proven to improve customer service by speeding the deposit process.

Late last year, JCM won a contract to provide the TBV to SAGA Technologies for its kiosks. The contract came after a successful year-long field trial of the TBV inside SAGA Technologies kiosks in more than 200 bank branch offices in Moscow.

More information on the TBV can be found on JCM’s website, www.jcmglobal.com.
